A compliments slip (or with compliments slip) is a slip of paper that contains the same name and address information that would be on a letterhead of formal letter stationery, the pre-printed salutation "with compliments" or "with our/my compliments", and space afterwards for a short handwritten message to be added. It is used in correspondence, as an enclosure for other material.

Jocular exchange. Lacan considered insults a primary form of social interaction, central to the imaginary order "a situation that is symbolised in the 'Yah-boo, so are you' of the transivist quarrel, the original form of aggressive communication". [clarification needed]Erving Goffman points out that every "crack or remark set up the possibility of a counter-riposte, topper, or squelch ...
